

Determining and Interpreting Your Score

At the end of each section, add the numbers to get the sum for that section. Then mark your score on the graph. Repeat this process for each section. As you draw a line connecting the marks, an overall picture of your spiritual maturity will emerge. Scores falling closer to the center of the circle indicate a more developed area in your walk with God, while scores falling toward the edges indicate areas where effort to grow may be considered. Please note that each of the eight sections stands on its own.

All of us will have areas of both strengths and weaknesses. Use this information to determine your next steps.
